MORE MONEY FROM MR. BISHOP TO THE MUSEUM

Transfers His Life Interest in Oahu Railway
Stock to Institution—Accounts of Trust
as Reported by Master.

According to the report of P. D. Kellett-Jr., master in chancery, on the annual accounts of the trustees of the Charles R. Bishop Trust, which has been presented to Judge De Bolt, Mr. Bishop has conferred another generous benefaction upon the Bernice Pauahi Bishop Museum. This noble memorial to his late wife, whose last will created the Kamehameha schools for boys and girls, is the main object of the trust in question. The latest bounty of Mr. Bishop consists of a transfer of his hitherto reserved life interest in $36,000 of O. R. & L. Co. stock to the museum.

The order for a master's report was made on December 12, 1904. The master presents the following matters:

On the 17th day of November, A. D. 1904, the said trustees filed their annual account, covering the period of one year from the 15th day of October, A. D. 1903, to and including the 12th day of October, A. D. 1904, in which they, the said trustees, charge themselves with the sum of $33,087.01 and ask to be allowed the sum of $35,910.38, leaving a balance due the trustees in the sum of $2,823.37.

The receipts include, however, the sum of $2,568.61, being cash balance on hand from the previous account.

Following is a summary of the receipts:

Balance on hand as per last count	$ 2,568 61

PETER HIGH VS. PINKHAM

Correspondence Passed
Regarding Lumber
Contract.

On the 19th of December last the contract for supplying lumber to the settlement on Molokai was awarded to Peter High. Almost immediately thereafter the President of the Board of Health asked the Attorney General for an opinion as to whether he had the power to refuse to accept lumber under the High contract, in the event that it should be shown that the lumber was handled or dressed by Asiatic labor.

Honolulu, Hawaii, January 3, 1905.
Dear Sir: My attention having been called to a claim that your lumber is handled and milled by alien labor, an opinion has been asked from the Attorney General whether, if such is the case, this department could legally accept lumber so handled and milled.

Opinion 31 informs me that this department cannot accept lawfully lumber so handled or milled. I should be pleased to receive a statement in writing relative to this matter, should this request meet with your pleasure.

Yours very truly,

L. E. PINKHAM,

President Board of Health.

The story of this incident, without the letter of Pinkham, was published in the Advertiser at the time, and Mr. High's statement that he did not employ Asiatic labor was also printed. As to the president of the Board of Health Mr. High answered his letter, that it is a well-known fact that the a proper answer enough, in view of the fact that Mr. High is an American citizen, not a criminal, and entitled under any interpretation of law to M. Whitehouse. I want to say that know the name of his accuser. This there are none so blind as those that

MR. KENDALL COMES BACK

Reiterates His Charges.
Draws a Deadly Parallel.

Editor Advertiser: I see by your paper of the 4th inst., and by the Bulletin of the 3d inst., that Supt. C. S. Holloway made a very feeble attempt to answer some of my charges in regard to the Hilo armory. He says that I have failed to prove my charges. Let us see whether I have ever failed to give proof of any charges that I have made in this matter. All of my charges have been made directly to Supt. Holloway before they have been made to anybody else and I have made said charges repeatedly to him, and as all of them were under his department, who else should I prefer the charges to? Now, I have repeatedly told him that I would bring proof of what I stated, and have further told him that it was not my purpose to make any idle talk, and when anyone prefers charges to the head of a department, and offers to give proof of his charges, is it not, may I ask, up to the head of that department to call for the proof of the charges made?

Mr. Holloway has never asked me for proof. If he had, he would have got it. I further told Assistant Superintendent Howland, while he was in Hilo, that I would give him ample proof. Did he ask for that proof? No. The fact of the case is, they don't seem to want the proof.

Supt. Holloway further says in his feeble attempt to answer my charges that it is a well-known fact that the firm of Hackfeld & Co. is not in the contracting business and that all the person that he knows in this case is L. M. Whitehouse. I want to say that there are none so blind as those that

CONGRATULATES ADVERTISER ON ITS FARMING VICTORY

"I want to congratulate the Advertiser on its great victory for small farming in Hawaii," said A. Louissou, the Hawaii coffee grower, yesterday. "The Advertiser is to be congratulated upon its courageous, determined course on behalf of small farming in this Territory, which means also the Americanization of the islands on a much larger scale."

"The Advertiser seemed fighting against general public sentiment, but this was a false sentiment, because the people did not know just where the Planters' Association stood. Now that the Planters' Association has shown just how it stands in this matter, I am sure you will find sentiment is more general toward small farming development than you imagine."

LAYS OFF THE HARNESS AFTER PROLONGED SERVICE

Our Maui correspondent announces that the venerable Rev. E. G. Beckwith, D. D., has resigned the pastorate of the Paia Foreign Church. Dr. Beckwith has had a long and a useful career, of which the following is but a scant outline:

Mr. Beckwith arrived in Honolulu in 1852 and took charge of the Royal School. Among his pupils were five Hawaiian sovereigns, Kings Kamehameha IV., Kamehameha V., Lunalilo, Kalakaua and Queen Liliuokalani, besides Queen Emma. Mrs. Pauahi Bishop was also one of Mr. Beckwith's pupils. In 1857, in company with Dr. Armstrong, the Minister of Public Instruction, he raised $30,000 in the States for the endowment of Oahu College. Mr. Beckwith became the first president of that institution, succeeding Rev. Daniel Dole, who had been principal of the Punahou school. Having been licensed to preach, he soon resigned and became pastor of a large church in Sacramento, California. Among the members of his congregation were Governor Stanford, Collis P. Huntington, the Crocker brothers and many others whose names are part of California and Pacific Coast history. After a theological course and several pastorates in different parts of the States, Mr. Beckwith drifted back, as all who have ever lived in Hawaii do, to the "isles of the blest." He became the pastor of the old Fort Street church and when that merged into the Central Union church in 1887 he became pastor of the larger body. In 1894 on account of advancing age and the illness of his wife he resigned and took charge of the Foreign Church at Paia, Maui. Now full of years and honor he has laid down the work for younger hands to take up and will enjoy a well-earned rest after over half a century of faithful labor for the upbuilding of these islands.

The most gorgeously colored fish that has been shown yet is the ulani, two specimens of which were gasping at the bottom of one of the tanks yesterday. They did not seem to be able to do much but lie on the bottom and gasp, but they were as gorgeous in their dress of green with pink markings as a couple of pieces of high priced soap. There was a new uhu fish, too, like a great blue parrot in shape and color. The shark was swimming majestically about in his tank as usual—that is, he was until a boy reached under the wire fence and pulled his tail. Then the big fish put on a burst of speed that would have done credit to a mainland express train.

There was the hint of a Kona in the strong wind that swept from the sea across the Park, and a tendency of the music of the band to go sailing off toward Manoa as soon as it got loose from the horns and got the kinks twisted out of itself. Also, the crowd rather sought shelter from the wind than places to hear the music to advantage. But the hint of the Kona remained a hint until after sundown, at least, and the pleasure seekers staid their usual time out of doors.

The sea was running high, the reef being covered with foam, and so there was little bathing, but the beach resorts were full of people and the cars to Waikiki ran crowded all the afternoon.

THERE WAS WAR IN THE HOUSE OF THE OCTOPUS

Manager Potter Rings in a Total Stranger on
One of His Aquarium Happy Families.

There was war in the house of the octopus out at the aquarium yesterday. You see, that house has had only two occupants heretofore, nice, fat, juicy fellows, covered with slime and suckers and things, and each of these had a hole in the rock pile where he could curl his legs around himself and sleep all day long, if he wanted to. The big squid took his pick of the two holes in the rock, and the little one took what was left. It was altogether an amicable arrangement.

Well, yesterday Manager Fred. Potter put a third octopus in the tank, a spotted one with his stomach covered with knobs. And that was cause for war. The big octopus came out of his hole, changed color two or three times in a minute, and began sparring for the intruder with a few of his legs. The knobby member went away from there, as far as the limits of the tank would permit. He continued to go away from there every time the big one sparrd at him, or even changed color. It was, for all the world, like the case of the new boy at school—with the new boy showing in every movement that he was not staying in that place because he wanted to.
